'Million Mom March' on Sunday has local connection

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

DIANE PLEINIS

On Mother's Day, Sunday, May 14th, mothers across the nation will be marching in Washington D.C. and in their own communities to demand that Congress pass sensible gun legislation.

In Sacramento, beginning at 2:00 p.m., marchers will gather near the Tower Bridge and make their way up Capitol Mall for a rally on the West Steps of the State Capitol.

"The march isn't just for mothers," explained West Sacramentan Diane Pleinis, who has spent the past few months working hard to make sure there will be a large turnout from this side of the river. "Fathers, grandparents, and young people of all ages are also more than welcome to participate in the march. Hopefully, everyone in West Sacramento who is concerned with gun violence against children will take the time to be a part of this very important event."

When Pleinis first heard about the Million Mom March on the Rosie O'Donnell television show, she decided she wanted to do more than just be a passive supporter.

"I found out over the Internet who to contact in Sacramento to get more involved," explained Pleinis, "and when I learned they needed an organizer in the West Sacramento area, I volunteered. We've had wonderful participation from a number of local businesses, including Whitey's Jolly Kone and the 15th Street Market, and Westmore Oaks and Southport Elementary School also allowed their students to take home hundreds of flyers notifying parents of the march. Thirteen children die every day in this country from gun violence, and as a parent, I find that totally unacceptable."

Pleinis went on to say, "The Million Mom March has a simple message, that we, the mothers of this nation, are calling on Congress to enact common sense gun control legislation. Such laws include safety locks, background checks, safety training, and licensing and registration of all guns. People justify misuse of guns with references to freedom, liberty and the American Dream. But my child's life far outweighs the right for anyone to carry a semi-automatic assault weapon or a Saturday night special. Hopefully, the Million Mom March will focus attention on gun violence and lead to the kind of national legislation that will make a real difference in the future."

Crocker Park, which is located at 216 O Street, directly across the street from the Crocker Art Museum, is the staging area for the Sacramento Million Mom March. T-shirts and Mother's Day cards which can be sent to Congress will be on sale, and former Sacramento Mayor Anne Rudin will be the Mistress of Ceremonies once the march reaches the Capitol Steps.

Precautions against violence

Police present at high school and funeral; elementary kids kept indoors as gang action feared

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A number of River City High School students stayed home from school on Thursday, apparently fearing gang trouble, as the funeral for one of their classmates was held elsewhere in West Sacramento. About 100 more students than usual stayed home both Thursday and Friday, said school officials.

Classmate Steven Vincent Mireles, 18, had been stabbed to death a week earlier while attending a post-prom party at a rented Sacramento motel room. Sacramento police have arrested at least one suspect. The killing occurred during a fight involving Mireles and several others. While Mireles was not believed to be an active gang member, a gang "element" was suspected in the killing and in related events.

West Sacramento Police Lt. David Farmer explained that rivalries between a pair of Latino gangs in the region may have been involved in the fatal argument as well as in the shooting of Mireles's home after his death (no one was hurt in the drive-by in which one round was fired). Gangs may have also been involved in another recent West Sacramento gun attack in which two were injured.

West Sacramento have maintained a stronger-than-usual presence at the high school (particularly on the day of the funeral), and both Sacramento and West Sacramento police were on hand at the West Sacramento church during which Mireles's funeral took place.

There had been a rumor of a "drive-by" planned for the school at the time of the funeral.

"Our concern was because this had implications of potential gang involvement," said Farmer. "We wanted to make sure the kids on campus felt safe. This was nothing more than a precautionary measure. Things were very quiet."

At one point, at least three patrol cars were visible parked in front of River City High School Thursday.

Also as a precaution, local police asked faculty at Bryte Elementary School and Elkhorn Elementary School – both located near the funeral location – to keep their kids indoors around the time of the funeral.

Sacramento police may have suspects in custody over the shot fired at Mireles's home. After receiving a description of the suspect vehicle, said Farmer, Sacramento officers spotted and attempted to pull over a similar-looking car. A chase ensued and the vehicle crashed. Three passengers were arrested (two were hospitalized for injuries). A gun was found in the car, and further investigation continues.

Police do not have any arrests in the Hobson Ave. shooting of two men on April 23, although that incident too, appears to have an element of gang involvement. A 19-year old was in critical condition after being shot several times – including twice in the head – and a 33-year old received a leg wound.

The pair had apparently been walking along the street when occupants of a passing car opened fire.

"We're not any different from any other community in the U.S.," commented Farmer. "It would be very naïve to say we don't have individuals belonging to gangs. There are times when there are situations between gangs that create violence. In this community, we're very fortunate that that has been minimal. In Sacramento, it seems to be a daily event."

Pre-Jubilee tunes

From the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce

Japan's 'Dixie Summit': one of three bands slated to entertain on West Sacramento's shore

The Year 2000 Sacramento Jazz Jubilee will kick off in West Sacramento.

Roger Krum, Director of the Sacramento Traditional Jazz Society, has selected the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce to host a free pre-Jubilee concert on the West Sacramento riverfront on May 24 – the day before the Jublilee officially begins.

The concert will feature three bands. One will be from West Sacramento, another from Sacramento, and a third from Japan. The free concert begins at 5:30 p.m. just north of the Money Store building on the city's new River Walk promenade. Food and beverages will be sold.

The Chamber will also produce its second annual "Jazzy Pancakes" breakfast on the Money Store patio on Saturday, May 27, at a cost of $5 per customer. Three bands will be on hand to provide music to go with breakfast.

"Last year's Jazzy Pancakes Breakfast was a great deal of fun," said Don Hill, the chamber's director. "We sat on the patio of the Money Store Headquarters, overlooking one of the most beautiful spots in the region and enjoyed pancakes and jazz."

On tap for the pre-Jubilee May 24 concert:

From 5:30-6 p.m. will be the "Syncopating Sea Monkeys" of West Sacramento. This youth band from River City High School will also perform in the Jubilee. Band director is Felicia Greenwood, who will herself be performing at the Jubilee with the "Rhythm Kings."

From 6:15 to 7 p.m., "Shelley Burns and The Avalon Swing" (of Sacramento) will perform. The band will make its tenth Jubilee appearance this year.

And at 7:15 p.m., Japan's "Dixie Summit" will take the stage. Led by Yoshihiro Nakagawa on cornet, the band also features his son Eijiro on trombone. The band performed last year at the Jubilee and has been invited to return this year.

Ballpark Avenue'?

The West Sacramento City Council will tonight consider changing the name of a future Triangle-area avenue to Ballpark Ave. instead of Park Ave.

The new name would reflect the proximity of the street to the new Raley Field stadium.

Now an aging industrial area, the district is planned to include a series of landscaped blocks approaching the Tower Bridge. The name "Park Ave." was intended to reflect that park-like atmosphere, notes a planning department staff report. But "Ballpark Ave." could eliminate the confusion that the city's emergency services might experience if West Sacramento has both a Park Avenue and its existing Park Blvd.

West Sac concerned about state office site bill

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The West Sacramento City Council will tonight be asked to take a position on a state assembly bill which might make it tough for the city to land future state office buildings.

City Manager Joe Goeden told the News-Ledger that if the council agrees with him, West Sacramento and Assemblywoman Helen Thomson will attempt to get AB 2494 changed.

A 1996 bill created four different "regions" from which the state can shop for site bids for new office space. Primary among them, said Goeden, is a "capital area" in which the state already owns suitable property. But when the search extends outside that area, he added, the search area won't necessarily include West Sacramento.

"Our point is that once you step out of that (capital area), our waterfront should be on an equal footing. If they open it up to the 'Central City' area," Goeden added in a reference to one of the other four defined regions, "then the Richards Blvd. region could bid and we couldn't."

Goeden said that the result was that the new bill "appeared to be lowering our status" with regards to being able to bid for new state office projects.

A heated rivalry existed earlier this decade when West Sacramento's Lighthouse project attempted to bid for such offices; late mayor Joe Serna of Sacramento opposed West Sacramento's equal consideration as a state office site.

Goeden said that it doesn't seem to be the "intent" of the current bill to shortchange West Sacramento. The goal, instead, seems to be "smart growth": concentrating new state office buildings in downtown areas to maximize the use of transit and other resources.

But in West Sacramento, he said, "the distance (from downtown Sacramento) isn't that much greater. We should be allowed to compete. I would think they would want us to compete because that would be good for bid prices."

The council meeting begins at 7 p.m. at city hall on Halyard Dr.

District selecting architect —

Staff of the Washington Unified School District is negotiating with Stafford King Weisse Architects of Sacramento for preliminary work in designing a new elementary school to serve West Sacramento's Southport region.

The 7,000-acre Southport region is currently undergoing large-scale home construction. The area's only other elementary school, Southport Elementary School, was built recently.

One possible site for the new school is within the "Bridgeway Island" subdivision west of Jefferson Blvd. and north of Marshall Road.

City prepares to move Southport fire station

West Sacramento's Southport fire station may move northward from Davis Road to Lake Washington Blvd.

Fire officials say the move would lead to improved response times as the Southport region grows, and the city council will be asked tonight to take some actions preparing for the site swap.

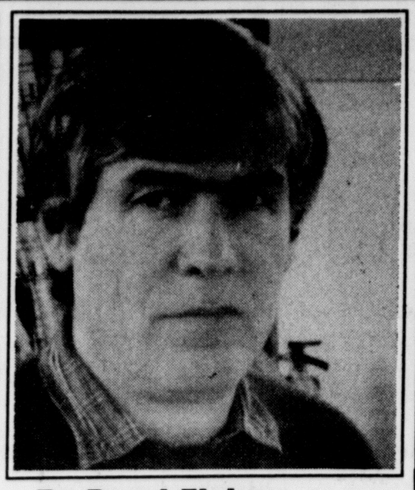

Also cited in fire chief Frederic Postel's report to the council is the inadequacy of the current firehouse at Davis and Jefferson. That building is undersized and has "design, space and structural deficiencies," says the report.

The new 1.65-acre site for Station 42 would be about 500 feet of the intersection of Jefferson and Lake Washington boulevards, putting it close to the ideal service location of Jefferson Blvd. near Arlington Oaks, according to the fire chief's report.

The council meets at 7 p.m. at its interim council chambers at 1350 Halyard Dr.

Some good West Sac advice: pay your water bill

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

Last week, the ancient sprinkler system in my front yard started leaking all over the place and the water pressure inside the house suddenly all but disappeared. Showers couldn't be taken, dishes, clothes and the dog couldn't be washed, and worst of all, toilets couldn't be flushed.

"I think we have a little problem," I finally informed my wife after I had thoroughly inspected the sprinkler command center where all kinds of rusty old pipes and different colored wires came together in a flower bed near the front of the house.

"I already know we have a problem, Daryl," said my wife, slightly agitated from not being able to finish washing her hair. "Don't you think we should call someone to fix it?"

"Are you kidding?" I cried. "Plumbers cost a fortune!"

"But you're not thinking of trying to fix it yourself, are you?" my wife asked with obvious concern on her face, having already witnessed my lack of handyman skills on numerous occasions throughout the years.

"You bet I am!" I said with as much confidence as I could muster. "I mean, just how hard can it be to fix a little old water leak in the front yard?"

So, off I went in search of the knowledge and materials I would need to do a good job, stopping first to explain my problem to Jerry Smith, the kind and always helpful owner of Hollywood Hardware. He suggested I simply saw off the pipe risers (I was relieved to know they actually had a name) below where they were leaking and then cap them. He even loaned me the tools I would need to accomplish the task.

"This is going to be a piece of cake," I assured my wife as I began digging a large hole in preparation for doing some serious pipe sawing.

"Are you sure you know what you're doing, Daryl?" my wife asked me only moments before I sawed something I shouldn't have, resulting in a rather eye-pleasing, but also heart-stopping water geyser that would have made "Old Faithful" proud.

Anyway, to make a long story short, sensing that my family was only a few hours away from needing an ark, I decided to go to plan "B". I called up an old friend who is fairly skilled in the area of plumbing and yelled, "Eddie, help!"

When Eddie arrived on the scene, he quickly examined the mess I had made of things, smiled at me as he often does when I make the mistake of trying to fix something myself, and then calmly went into the house and called the West Sacramento Public Works Department. Although it was the lunch hour, two large trucks and three uniformed men (Lonny Lee, Loren Alander, and Danny Valencia) soon arrived on the scene. They quickly got things under control, so I gladly left them with Eddie and hurried off to the News-Ledger, where I figured I could get into a lot less trouble.

"Dad," said the voice on the other end of the phone a few hours later, "I just got home from school, and do you know what's going on out in our front yard?"

"Kinda," I replied.

"There's a bunch of men out there, and one of them only has his head sticking out of the ground. Someone has dug a hole that has got to be five or six feet deep and almost that wide."

"Don't worry," I assured my son. "They know what they're doing."

"But it looks like someone dropped a bomb on the front yard!"

"It'll all be over in a few hours," I promised.

"Does Mom know this is going on?"

"Well, it's probably best not to bother your mother about this just yet," I strongly suggested. "She's at work and there's no use upsetting her."

"But she's going to die when she sees this! And judging from all the stuff they're doing, it's probably going to cost a lot of money, too."

As it turned out, the wonderful city I live in didn't charge me a penny, although Lonny, Loren and Danny spent hours digging two large holes (one in the front yard and another in the street) and also installed all kinds of new valves and connecting pipes, resulting in better water pressure in my house than ever before.

"It's all part of your water service," explained Danny to a much relieved citizen of West Sacramento. "As long as your water bill is paid up, there won't be any charge for any of this. You will have to fix your own sprinkler system, of course."

Later that night, after I had informed my wife that everything was back to normal and promised her that she would never, ever have to use the News-Ledger bathroom again, even in an emergency situation, she said, "Well, Daryl, I just hope that this has taught you a really good lesson."

"It certainly has," I assured her. "From now on, I'm going to make absolutely sure our water bill is always paid on time!"

'Gently used' books

The East Yolo Friends of the Library will hold their next booksale on Saturday, June 10th from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, June 11th from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Donations of gently used books are accepted at the library year-around. Proceeds from the sales are used to support children's programs, lease books, and for the public typewriter and PC, and the audio and video collections.

Magazine donations are desperately needed as well. The popular magazine sale table in the library is stocked every day by a volunteer who recently said the donations are not keeping up with the demand. Most requested subjects are: crafts, home decoration, gardening, cooking, travel and pets.

You can take your book and magazine donations to the Arthur F. Turner Library at 1212 Merkley Avenue in West Sacramento during the library's open hours. For information or hours, call 375-6465.

SPORTS

Sports Insider: River Cats ready to open at Raley Field

By Richard Novoa

It's "wait til next year" for our beloved Sacramento Kings.

The Kings probably played their worst game of season last Friday night suffering a 113-86 loss in the fifth and deciding game of the playoffs. Shaquille O'Neal returned to his dominant self after two sub-par games in Sacramento to score 32 points, grab 18 rebounds, dish out four assists and block three shots. The Kings didn't look like the team that beat the Lakers twice last week at the Arco Arena. Chris Webber was the only King to score in double figures.

The amazing fact on Friday night was the Arco Arena was filled to capacity with wild Kings fans. The Kings invited fans to watch the game from the friendly confines of the Arco at no charge. It was packed to the top arena with standing room only! The Kings should have charged at least $1 and donated the $18,000 plus to a local charity. Wait until next year!

The Lakers had little time to prepare for their second round opponents, the Phoenix Suns. The Lakers whipped them up on Sunday 105-77 to take the lead in the best of seven series. The Lakers won all four games they played against Phoenix this year. The Lakers will win the series in five games before the tackle the winner of the Utah vs Portland series. The Portland Trailblazers are the only team in the NBA that can beat the Lakers.

Can you believe the WWF and NBC-TV are teaming up to create a new professional football league? The XFL will begin play in February 2001 with teams in L.A., Miami, New York and few other major cities. The season will run from February through April.

Wrestling promoter Vince McMahon formed a partnership with NBC to televise his football games on Saturday night during prime time. Can you smell what the Rock got cooking!!

The River Cats are less than a week away from their May 15th home opener at Raley Field but Cats pitcher Ariel Prieto will be in the Bay Area. The Cats pitching rotation has changed completely with only Barry Zito remaining from the Opening Day rotation. Mark Mulder and Prieto are in Oakland; Terry Burrows is in Japan, and Jon Ratliff is on the injured list. The A's recalled Jeremy Giambi leaving the Cats with only three outfielders. The Cats have already made 22 roster moves since Opening Day. The A's disgruntled center fielder Rich Becker didn't like Cats outfielder Terrence Long taking over his position so the A's waived him Friday. Looks like Terrence, who batting .275, might stick around Oakland for few more weeks.

The Cats took three of four from Colorado Springs and have won seven of their last nine. The River Cats are in Fresno this week and will finish their long road trip with a five game series in Tacoma. Tickets are still available by calling 447-HITS.

The Sacramento Sports Commission will hosting the 2000 U.S. Olympic Track and Field team trials at Hornet Stadium, C.S.U.S., starting July 14-23, 2000. Tickets for single day events go on sale May 15th. For ticket information call (916) 264-6700 or visit the web site at www.sacsports.com.

Happy Mother's Day and see ya next week!!

RC tennis takes another league title

From River City High

For the fifth consecutive year and the seventh time in school history, the Rive City High School tennis team has won the Golden Empire League championship. An 8 to 1 victory against rival Colfax and a 9 to 0 demolition of Mesa Verde gave the Raiders an 11-1 record in G.E.L. play, good for a one-match margin over second place Marysville.

River City had defeated Colfax 8 to 1 in West Sacramento in late March, but there were numerous close matches then and the Raiders knew they were in for another tough contest last week. The four singles matches got underway first and R.C. won them all in straight sets. Seniors Prak Pich, Sisavat Phouanglasy and Khonesavanh Lattasima led the assault. Junior Sokpin Phoung also won her match.

As the doubles matches began, River City needed just one win in the five remaining contests to take the overall match. Seniors Huy Troung and Andy Amphonephong fell way behind early but stormed back for the victory. The sophomore duo of Sokhear Touch and William Clayton also won their match, as did Erin Cheechov and Keonakone Lattasima, Casey Insixiengmay and Michelle Jones, and Ka Yang and Khounthavy.

The final match of the G.E.L. season was a bit anticlimactic as the Raiders traveled to Citrus Heights to take on Mesa Verde. The day's highlights included "double bagel" shutout victories by Andy Amphonephong and Keonakone Lattasima. In their varsity debuts, juniors Sou Saetern and freshman Nai Saelee teamed up for a mixed doubles win and sophomore Manivanh Nanthavongsa and partner Michelle Jones also played very well in their victory.

With the league championship theirs and team playoffs still two weeks away, the Raiders turn their attention to the G.E.L. Individual Tournament tomorrow and Friday at Lindhurst. Each team in the league will sent two entries to compete in girls and boys singles, girls and boys doubles, and mixed doubles. Individual event champions and finalist will then advance to next week's Sac-Joaquin Section Individual Tournament in Stockton to take on the best singles players and doubles teams from the Section's five other leagues.

Take me out to the ballgame!

Need sporting goods? Crazyhorse has it

(Note: Below is the latest in a series of News-Ledger profiles of the newspaper's advertisers. Enjoy!

BILL STEFFEY with 'The Greatest': Muhammed Ali

Bill Steffey, the owner and operator of Crazyhorse Sports & Memorabilia, moved to West Sacramento when he was 14-years-old.

"I'm originally from Vallejo," explained Bill, "and it was kind of hard on the whole family when the company my father worked for suddenly transferred him from the Bay Area. I was used to cool weather and having hills all around me, and the next thing I knew, I was right in the middle of a big, hot, flat valley. Plus I went from being my junior high school class president to not knowing a single soul in a whole new town. There was some culture shock, too, because back in the early 60s, Sacramento had what were called "frats", which were guys who wore white tennis shoes and liked surfer music, and I wasn't really into any of that. I quickly learned, however, that West Sacramento was different. Most of the guys wore hard shoes and they were also a lot easier to get to know. So, it wasn't too long before I was just another typical West Sac Jack and really enjoying myself."

After graduating from James Marshall High School in 1966, Bill immediately joined the United States Air Force.

"I graduated on a Friday," remembered Bill, "and the next Monday morning, I was in Texas beginning my basic training."

Bill spent a total of eight years in the Air Force, including a tour of duty in Vietnam, where he received the Bronze Star for meritorious service. Most of his time in the Air Force was spent as an air freight instructor, training new enlistees how to properly load large cargo airplanes.

"After I got out of the service," recalled Bill, "I went back to school on the G.I. Bill and graduated from Sacramento City College. While I was going to school, I was employed by the Washington Unified School District as a groundsman and janitor, and after I graduated, I went to work for the State of California and was a clerical supervisor for 20 years."

In 1981, while still employed by the State, Bill opened up his first sporting goods store in West Sacramento, which he called Stone Canyon Sports.

"I would spend all morning at the sports store," said Bill, "and then work the swing shift at my State of California job. But I had always enjoyed sports, both as a participant and a fan, and having my own sporting goods store was something I was determined to do. I was even able to employee a few of my old coaches (John Corrigan & Bob Cruz) part time after they had retired, and that was a lot of fun."

For a short while, Bill relocated Stone Canyon Sports to the corner of Folsom Boulevard and Bradshaw Road to be near a home he had purchased.

"From 1981 to the present," said Bill, "my heart has always been in West Sacramento, and I'm really happy to have a sporting goods store open here again. It's the only one in town and we offer our customers quite a few extras that they just can't get anywhere else. For instance, the bigger stores across the river mostly stock items with only the most popular team logos on them. Here at Crazyhorse, if you want a hat or shirt or uniform from a last place team, I'll find it for you. I have suppliers on top of suppliers and I really enjoy getting just what a customer wants, instead of trying to sell him something he doesn't."

Another West Sacramento selling point is the fact that Bill still has many friends in this area.

"It seems like somebody I used to know or go to school with is always walking through the door," said Bill, "and sometimes it looks like a high school reunion in here. Plus most West Sacramentans make a point of shopping at their local stores whenever possible and I truly appreciate loyalty in customers. They know I will do anything I can to help them and that I'll try to give them the very best price, too."

Throughout Crazyhorse Sports & Memorabilia there are photographs and sporting equipment which have been signed by some of the sporting world's most famous athletes.

"And if you buy something from me which has been autographed by a well-known athlete," said Bill, "you can rest assured that it's the real thing. There's a lot of dishonesty in the sports memorabilia business and I always make a point of having a photograph taken of me and the sports star who is signing memorabilia for me."

Bill also supplies team uniforms to numerous area athletes.

"We sell Little League uniforms, as well as soccer, softball, and football uniforms," said Bill. "We do schools, Pop Warner leagues, you name it. We also can provide them with any of the equipment they need, so we're a full service store and we deal with all sports."

In addition to merchandizing official NFL, MLB, and NBA products, Bill is also proud of the fact that his store can get customers exactly what they want when they want it.

"With most sporting good stores," explained Bill, "if they don't have what you want in stock, then you're out of luck. But customer service is what I pride myself on and I hope anyone with a sporting goods need in West Sacramento will give me a chance to serve them first. This has always been a great sports town and it deserves a first class sporting goods store."

Crazyhorse Sports & Memorabilia is open seven days a week, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Bill has three children; Michelle, who is 27, Bill Jr., who is 22, and Michael, who is 16.

by some other means not allowing the general public to know what's going on. And no doubt the selling of rezoned land is where some of the biggest profits are made with minimal investment. Rezoned land with warehouses is one example.

When the same investors/developers own the damaged City Hall and the land north of the library, where new City Hall was to have been build, something is very wrong. Even more is wrong when said developers back out of the land swap for fear of "losing $300,000 in repairs or assessed valuation differential." Compare that figure to the millions they've made in the last 12 years, but the additional millions of dollars they stand to make in like profits in the future. That $300,000 pales by comparison.

Wake up, developers!

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

A good time for civic pride

Chalk up River Walk as one of those things the city has done right; the attractive promenade will be a source of local pride for many decades.

The walk was formally opened two weeks ago amid a festive atmosphere. It stretches northward from the Tower Bridge, and will continue to stretch even more northward as new property is developed, providing a nice counterpoint to the stadium now essentially complete south of the Tower Bridge approach.

The well-manicured promenade features brick, stone and greenery already enticing to picnickers. It will prove even more attractive as West Sacramento's riverfront develops, bringing new area employees and renewed vigor to the region. River Walk will achieve its goal of encouraging public access to the river even as high-rises go in just west of the levee. Height restrictions on new buildings close to the river will help visually tie the area together, maintaining a riverfront sense of openness and allowing buildings a block or two from the river to remain connected to it.

When River Walk was being planned, West Sacramento had little reason to believe that it would host a Triple A-level, regional baseball team at a site nearby. But this longshot has come to pass, and the two projects (stadium and River Walk) are fortuitously coming to completion at the same time.

All in all, that makes a pretty good couple of weeks for West Sacramento civic pride.

Monday marks the first home game of the River Cats, and you may expect them to enjoy excellent Sacramento-area fan support. See you at the game.

Congratulations West Sac 4-H

This past weekend the Yolo County Fairgrounds was a buzz of activity as youth from throughout Yolo County participated in the annual 4-H Spring Show. The show features 4-H members' accomplishments ranging from quilt making and cake decorating to livestock and showmanship.

We would like to thank all the Project Leaders and also say a special thank you to Linda Davis, Community Leader, for once again exemplifying the 4-H motto "To make the best better!"

Our West Sacramento 4-H Club members had a great show with several division winners. Congratulations to all our West Sacramento Club members, you did a fantastic job!

Save the elephants

On April 20, an elephant with Culpepper & Merriweather Circus broke loose from her shackles, stomped on a circus worker, and terrorized citizens as she escaped into a residential neighborhood. Three months ago a circus worker was crushed to death by an elephant in Florida. Another circus worker was hospitalized in serious condition after an elephant attack a year ago in Minnesota. In tragedy after tragedy, circus personnel cannot even protect themselves, let alone the general public, once a dangerous animal rebels against a trainer's physical dominance.

Elephants are snapping under the strain of life in captivity, and young children attending circuses are often the ones at greatest risk. Rampaging elephants have terrified and injured children clinging to their backs, sent circus crowds scrambling for exits, and been gunned down by SWAT teams in city streets. Incredibly, circuses continue to use known killers in public performances. Just since 1990, nearly 50 people have been killed and more than 100 injured by captive elephants. Nine of those elephants were destroyed, most gunned down in a hail of bullets. A detailed list of elephant attacks can be found on PETA's circus Web site, www.circuses.com.

The danger has become so critical that a bill was recently introduced in Congress to protect elephants and the public. HR 2929, the Captive Elephant Accident Prevention Act, will ban the use of elephants in traveling shows and elephant rides. Readers can help captive elephants, most of whom were caught in the wild, by asking their congressional representatives to support this important legislation.

Developers should wake up

"Area just keeps growing...Davis residents approved Measure J (in March), an initiative that requires voter approval before open land is rezoned for residential development."
(Bee, B8, 5/4/2000)

Since certain developers do not seem to want to cooperate with West Sac city leaders, "turnabout should be fair play". Also for local control with even more teeth in it, this writer would expand the concept of the City of Davis' Measure J/local ordinance for not only rezoning for residential development, let's also include commercial, industrial and any other potential rezoning of open land. Specific exceptions should probably be allowed for land to be redeveloped.

For too long the rezoning of land has been done either behind closed doors, in coded language or

The Methodist church in Reno has been made the scene of a moonshine party.

That's nothing. A cellar was dug under the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Sacramento some short time ago.

High school girls of Sacramento passed a resolution the other day:

"Resolved, That Rev. O. P. Harnish change his name to 'O. U. Tarnish'."

Referred to lunacy expert.

That was the disposal made by the City Council last Thursday night of the letter written by H. H. Sydenham recommending the endorsement of the Ku Klux Klan for a position on the Board of Education.

It is a strange hallucination of mind that prompts a man to commit suicide now.

Soon we will have one-piece bathing suits and flappers with great peek-a-boo waists.

When a horse puts on a little speed they say he is feeling his oats.

When an auto driver does similarly he is feeling his corn.

There is quite a rivalry on now.

Pullman cars are vieing with apartment houses to see which will have the queerest names.

You must never object to being bored.

To grow popular you must stand for it.

MUDDLED DECISIONS LEAVE PEOPLE LAUGHING AT EFFORTS OF DRY OFFICERS

the scope of the discussion broadened to include "our neighborhood home brewers" and "our neighborhood drinkers." The "Evening World" reporter says:

Piecing together the different stories told, the situation seems to be about like this:

There is a lot of home brewing, hip toting, bootlegging and boozing in the Chelsea district. Drunken sixteen-year-old boys are seen on the streets and the younger element, both sexes, is hitting it up rather lively under the impression that such is the "fashion." You can buy home brew in private homes where they make it regularly.

A survey by local prohibition officers in Washington, D. C., shows that 90 per cent of the bootleg traffic in Washington is conducted in private residences.

The Association of Federal, State and District Attorneys met in Albany recently to seek legislative relief because of the alarming increase in rum running and murders resulting from bootleggers' feuds. The district attorney of Clinton County says that "crime in Clinton County has increased about 300 per cent due entirely to violations of the prohibition law."

According to John F. Major in the Washington "Post," bootleggers are now employing chemists for the purpose of converting denatured or poisonous alcohol into drinkable stuff. Mr. Major reports an official authority that 10,000 male and female bootleggers are flooding Washington with bad booze.

The Connecticut State Board of Education has been asked by the Willimantic High School Board to investigate charges made by citizens of drinking of intoxicants at school dances.

In Newark, N. J., the attendance department of the Newark School Board has made complaints to the federal prohibition agents that children had come to school so drunk that they had to be taken home.

James M. Beck, Solicitor-General of the United States, complains bitterly of "the rising tide of lawlessness in this country." He shows that in the criminal courts—the Federal courts—the indictments have increased from 9,503 in 1912 to over 70,000 in the year 1921. Thirty thousand of these cases had to do with prohibition statutes. County Judge Franklin Taylor of Brooklyn has stirred up the W. C. T. U. by his indictment of Volsteadism. He says: "Our prohibition enforcement laws are wholly lacking in brains. . . . The people are heartily sick of fake prohibition. . . . I suggest for consideration a modified 'Quebec system,' because that province has beer and is sober, whereas America has whiskey and is not sober. I say 'modified' because Quebec allows the sale of whiskey in government stations with substantial safeguards. We, however, would have to impose substantial restrictions in order to come within the constitutional limitations of use for medicinal rather than beverage purposes."

Judge Walter Evans of the Federal Court for the Western District of Kentucky has caused consternation in prohibition ranks by his decision that automobiles may not be searched without a warrant under the Volstead law.

Police Log

May 5, 10:55 p.m.

Officers arrested a 21-year old Fair Oaks man for breaking into a Jefferson Blvd./ Lake Washington Blvd. construction yard and taking two acetylene tanks worth about $500. The tanks were found in his car.

May 5, 1:10 p.m.

On Sunset Ave., a resident reported that a one-year old child was living in unfit conditions. Police and code enforcement officials checked out the residence, found it indeed unfit, and condemned it. The family was temporarily relocated and code enforcement officials planned to follow-up the case.

May 6, 12:25 a.m.

A Beardsley Dr. woman reported her daughter had received threats, calling police three times. But she refused to discuss the threats with officers and instead berated them, saying "police are a__oles who don't care." She appeared intoxicated and was believed to be using the story about threats as an excuse to berate the police.

May 6, 12:55 a.m.

An anonymous tip was received that a parolee at large was at a West Capitol Ave. rental. Police set up a perimeter around the address and contacted the man. The man attempted to flee out the back, was blocked by officers, and re-entered the home and escaped out a bathroom window. He was tackled after a short chase and appeared to suffer medical distress. Police believed he was acting, but he was medically cleared at a hospital before being jailed. An officer lost a flashlight in the incident, and believe witnesses walked away with it.

May 6, 1:35 a.m.

A security guard at a 3rd St. office building reported that three suspects smashed a pair of security card readers at the site, and then fled.

May 6, 2:20 p.m.

A woman at a Sacramento Ave. mobile home reported her adult daughter left the residence after threatening to kill herself.

May 6, 6 p.m.

A Madrone Ave. landlord reported that an elderly tenant had failed to pay his rent, and that this was unusual for the tenant. He requested the police check his welfare. Entering the residence, police found the man dead of apparent natural causes.

May 6, 9:20 p.m.

At Bridge Pl. and Linden Rd., a caller reported hearing shots fired. Police found nothing.

May 7, 1:35 p.m.

At a West Capitol Ave. store, security officials detained a girl for shoplifting makeup. The girl was cited by police and released to the custody of her mother.

May 7, 3:45 p.m.

Officers responded to a report that a man with a handgun was chasing a female down Pecan St. They took position around the suspect residence. One officer behind cover was charged by two "pit bull" dogs that emerged from a home, and fired a round from her sidearm into the ground in front of the charging dogs. The dogs retreated and were secured by their owner. The two participants in the original dispute were located and counseled; no weapon was found and the man was believed to be carrying CDs and keys in one hand which had been mistaken for a gun. No arrests were made and the case of the charging dogs was forwarded to animal control officers.

May 7, 1:15 p.m.

A woman working at a Harbor Blvd. store reported that a male and female suspect had entered the store, walked to the rear, and later left in a hurry. Checking the office where the cash box was kept, she found that someone had unsuccessfully tried to pry open the office door with a screwdriver or other tool.

May 7, 11:30 p.m.

On West Capitol Ave., officers stopped a man on searchable probation and searched him, finding several bags of marijuana in his car. The man was cited and released.
